

Domestic Violence (or Intimate Partner Violence)

DVCC Protocol “Scorecard”

What follows now is a chart that shows categories or types of abuse and the questions on the DVCC that are related to each of those categories.

Type of Abuse	Item #'s	Description
Emotional Abuse.	1-41	These items involve ways that your partner may have tried to hurt your feelings or damage your sense of self-worth.
Confinement and Control Issues	42-72	These items are about incidents in which your partner may have attempted or succeeded in confining you to your home or controlling whom you saw or spoke to.
Threat of Physical Violence	73-89	These items have to do with behavior your partner may have used to threaten or scare you.
Physical Violence	90-112	These items are about incidents in which physical violence may have occurred against you.
Sexual Abuse	113-128	These items are concerned with sexual abuse. [Note: Many women do not realize sexual abuse has occurred during their relationships until someone points out specific things that can happen between men and women that are physically and/or emotionally harmful to women.]
Severe Injuries	129-137	These items describe actions that may cause severe injuries.
Risk Factors	138-160	These items are linked with risk factors for violence.
Victims only	161-184	These items are to be filled out by those who consider themselves to be victims.

This next section is for the person filling out the DVCC-R to answer questions about his/her own behavior.

Emotional Abuse	185-216	The following things involve ways that you may have tried to hurt to your partner’s feelings or damage his/her sense of self-worth.
Confinement and Control Issues	217-253	The following items have to do with incidents in which you may have attempted or succeeded in confining your partner to his/her home or controlling whom s/he saw or spoke to.
Threat of Physical Violence	254-274	The following items have to do with your behavior that you may have used to threaten or scare your partner.
Physical	275-297	The following items have to do with incidents in which you may have engaged

